

COHASSET COTTAGE.

VOLUME I.

COHASSET, MASS., SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1882.

NUMBER 13.

E. P. WELCH & SON.,
AGENTS FOR
The New Champion
HORSE RAKE

WITH
OSCILLATING CLEANER.
The Best RAKE made. Does not scratch up the dirt like other rakes.
Farming Tools,
Haying Tools,
Scythes, Snaths, Rakes, Hoes, &c.
Walter A. Wood MOWER.
GARDEN SEEDS!
Also, constantly on hand, a full stock of Lumber, Builders' Hardware, Agricultural Tools, Furniture, &c., &c.
Also, Lime, Brick, Cement, Hair, Plaster, Doors, Sashes and Blinds, Brushes, Cordage, Lead, Nails and Zinc.
Scituate, Mass.

E. P. WELCH & SON.,

AGENTS FOR

The New Champion
HORSE RAKE

WITH
OSCILLATING CLEANER.

The Best RAKE made. Does not scratch up the dirt like other rakes.

Farming Tools,
Haying Tools,
Scythes, Snaths, Rakes, Hoes, &c.

Walter A. Wood MOWER.

GARDEN SEEDS!

Also, constantly on hand, a full stock of Lumber, Builders' Hardware, Agricultural Tools, Furniture, &c., &c.

Also, Lime, Brick, Cement, Hair, Plaster, Doors, Sashes and Blinds, Brushes, Cordage, Lead, Nails and Zinc.

Scituate, Mass.

The New Champion
MOWER!

Possesses many points of Excellence not found in any other Machine. The acknowledged CHAMPION OF MOWERS. It will pay you to examine it.

H. A. SEAVERN & Co., Agents, No. Scituate.

THE TIGER RAKE!

Solid Wrought Iron Axle extending from wheel to wheel.

THE BEST MADE RAKE! THE BEST RAKE MADE!

The Teeth are made of the best spring steel, tempered in oil, and run lightly on the ground; are easily adjusted at the will of the operator to any desired position, and will rake heavy green hay as well as light. Any boy or girl that can drive a horse can rake with the TIGER. EXAMINE AND COMPARE.

The Adams & Westlake
WIRE GAUGE, NON-EXPLOSIVE

OIL STOVES.

Call and see them in operation at

THE VARIETY STORE
NORTH SCITUATE.

Cohasset Cottager,

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY

AT COHASSET, MASS.

In connection with the SOUTH SHORE MARSHES

ADVERTISING RATES VERY LOW.

Subscription Price $2 per year.
SINGLE COPIES 5 CENTS.

NEWCOMB BATES, - AGENT -

COHASSET.

Arrived—Wednesday, Schooner Wide Awake, Capt. Manuel S. Enos, 275 barrels of mackerel. Thursday, Schooner Charlotte, Capt. Valine, 275 barrels.

Schooner, Duroc, Capt. F. E. Hardine, barrels and brick.
Summer Arrivals:—Jerusalem road, H. H. Coolidge, Esq.; Sandy Cove, Mr. Geo. Dexter.

Mr. Quick is the name of the gentleman who has bought the Healey place.
The 520 train from Boston is very convenient and appreciate by the patrons of the O. C. R. R.

Mr. Chas. S. Bates is building a drive way up to the Deane house which he is renovating, and improving the sidewalk.

Rev. Mr. Clark of the Mass. Home Missionary Society will preach at the Second church on Sunday.

The graduating class of the Grammar schools has been taking examinations during last week in arithmetic, geography, language and spelling for admission to the High School.

Diplomas will be awarded the graduates at the High school, next Tuesday afternoon, when there will be a few declamations and readings.

Arrived Sunday—Schooners, Morning Star, Capt. Manuel P. Antoine, 120 bbls. of mackerel; Katie Hall, Capt. S. Enos, 250 barrels.

A strawberry and ice cream festival was given at Atlantic Mill Hall, Thursday evening. A full account in next issue.

By this dear Donald: Fresh breath of morning, came over your me. I have turned over every heart during the day, and page I did the same writing, gratitude for the love of a nobl

SCITUATE.

Mr. Thomas Merritt, Boston, a native of Scituate, has donated the Pi-ner Library, with a large number of books.

Dr. Geo. O. Jenkins of South Boston, wife and daughter made Capt.
John Manson a visit, Saturday.

Capt. Geo. Edson and Wm. Bates, each took out a party of five from Hanover and So. Scituate, Saturday.

Miss Frankie Gerry of Hanson, a daughter of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Borditch, a visit.

Ernest L. Bonney has graduated from the Bryant and Stratton Commercial College, and received his diploma.

He expects a situation in the fall.

On the express train, Monday, there were upwards of four hundred passengers, as compared between Hingham and Boston.

Flags were suspended on the 17th, at the residences of Everett Torrey, Esq., Hon. Geo. Lunt, Mrs. Chas. D.
Young and the Scituate house, First Cliff.

Mr. Geo. O. Elms of East Boston, and family spent Sunday with their relatives in Scituate.

Daniel H. Ward and his brother Edward, better known as the "deacon" brought in the largest quantity of moss on the 17th, that has been pulled this season, by any two men.

Our people ought to appreciate the excellent railroad facilities between here and Boston, for the summer, as arranged by the Old Colony Railroad.

The funeral services of Mrs. Jefferson Curtis of Quincy, a former resident of Scituate, was held in the M. E.
Church, Monday afternoon, and her remains laid to rest in the Union Cemetery.

Schooner Belle, Capt. Binth, has been newly painted inside.

We have ever an occasion in Scituate, which drew out such a large and select audience as the High School Graduation? If so, when and where?

Those of our readers, who are to be away through the summer and wishing the Herald sent to them, can be so accommodated by leaving their names and address at our office.

Mrs. Hudson and daughter of New York, are stopping with Rev. L. P.
Cauley.

Mr. Axel Vial has a notice in another column.

Gen. Thom was in town Thursday viewing the work on the breakwater.
Mr. Winfred Spencely was the guest of Geo. Brown, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bates of Chicago, Ill., are on the summer visit to Enoch Gardner, Esq.

In connection with the request of Gulstus's chaplain that the Christian people of the United States should pray for the wretched man, Rev. Will C. Wood will preach next Sabbath on "What is Forgiveness? Can God forgive a murderer?"

Mr. Chas. T. Gallagher has our thanks for a copy of the Manual for the General Court for 1882; also, for an outline map of the Commonwealth of Mass., showing the new Congressional districts as adopted by the Legislature. This map may be seen at our office.

Willie W. Waterman has been appointed assistant Postmaster.

Rev. Mr. Seaver at the Unitarian church preached on Sunday last a sermon on "Educational Influence" beside those of the friends and teacher's desk. He announced at the close of the services that his discourse on Sunday next, would be addressed to young people, especially young men.

Rev. L. P. Cauley was stationed at Grinnell, Iowa in 1875, and in response of the terrible devastation of the late tornado there, he noticed among the killed several of the members of his church there.

Mr. Edward Webb, spent the 17th with his father, Geo. H. Webb, Esq.
Mr. Joseph Curtis and daughter are guests of Everett Torrey, Esq.

The monthly meeting of the Sabat Library Association will meet at Dr.
Vinal's office, Saturday evening.

Miss Adair Bonney attended the graduation exercises of the Derby Academy at Hingham Wednesday.
Miss B. was formerly a graduate of this academy.

Mass at the Catholic church at 11 o'clock, next Sabbath.

Mr. Geo. H. Webb's buggy was downed last week it seems, as it was slightly smashed there.

Among the matter crowded out from this issue is a communication from a Scituate boy in the west; the promotions from the different schools, and other local matter.

Children's Day.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

Graduation day of the High School will certainly call together the largest and most cultured audience that assembles in Scituate during the year, if we may judge from that which came together in the Unitarian Church on Friday evening, June 16th, to listen to the exercises of the class of 1882.

The church was crowded to its full capacity; and, had it not been for the limited space, it is but plain to judge that twice as many as were present would have been there. Fully five hundred were present.

The music of the occasion was furnished by the Hingham Philharmonic Orchestra, 13 pieces, Reuben Sprague, Conductor. It was of itself a concert of very high order, and the public criticism of this part of the entertainment, may be considered that of which any orchestra may well be proud.

The selections rendered were as published in the Herald of June 1st.

The floral decorations on the lower platform embraced a choice and large collection of pot plants, flowers, and trailing vines twined around pillars, and were arranged with artistic taste and skill. Also a most beautiful fern of the order of cryptogamous plants.

For these the class acknowledge their great indebtedness to Mrs. John Pierce Mrs. Wm. Wells, Mrs. Geo. Lincoln, Miss Abbie Litchfield and Mrs. Chas.
Bates who superintended and arranged the whole without any expense whatsoever.

Willie W. Waterman, Chas. C. Turner, Elmer Litchfield, Gardner Bates and Hubert F. Bingham, served very successfully and gracefully as ushers under the direction of Willard L. Bailey as Chief Usher, each being distinguished by "gold gold" badges and batons.

The class decided upon "Antique Gold" as their color, the programmes and tickets being neatly printed on paper of this color by Bailey Bros., No. Scituate.

The class motto was suspended upon the wall above the platform, on a blue background in old gold letters. It was in Latin—Primi, sed tantum cunctis.
"First, but only pioneers."

The following was the Programme:

PRAYER.
Latin Hymnary, Ernest J. Brown, Esq., Music, Josie M. Litchfield, Esq., Lyrics and their Lessons, Annie E. Chubbuck, Oration, The Secret of Success, Ernest J. Brown, Music.

THE CHRISTIAN STATEMAN.
Class History, Annie E. Chubbuck, Undergraduates Farewell, Fred L. Bailey, Music.

THE INFLUENCE OF SCIENCE.
Class History, Josie P. Seaverns, Oration, The Influence of Science, With Volodytsky, Henry T. Bailey, Music.

CLASS HYMN.
Awakening D. plumes, Benediction.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior class singing the solo with a pleasing voice and expression, that would have reflected credit upon a professional soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

After the introductory overture, a solo and chorus as an anniversary
hymn was rendered.

Miss Alice Norbury of the Junior
class singing the solo with a pleasing
voice and expression, that would have
reflected credit upon a professional
soloist.

thedral at Pisa. Kepler, tolling over interminable columns of figures, more comprehended a general introduction; and addressed to the principal, to the School Committee, to the friends of education, and lastly to schoolmates and classmates, (the latter rising while being addressed,) in truly affectionate and impressive language. With the tender emotions of the occasion, the speaker acquitted himself nobly and grandly, with a clear and forcible enunciation and deeply impressive manner.

After music by the orchestra, the class came upon the rostrum and sang the "Class Hymn," with orchestral accompaniment, Miss Annie E. Chubbuck singing the first three verses as a solo.
The hymn was composed by Miss Mabel Cole and was as follows:

CLASS HYMN.
Graduation! time of parting
From our schoolmates, kind and dear, Every heart doth breathe low wishes.
At life's threshold we appear.

Happy years o'er us have glided,
Since we first as classmates met;
There are bound by ties of friendship,
Filled with warm true love and sweet.

Now we stand in life's battle, Childhood's freedom days are o'er;
In the world's broad field of conflict
We shall meet each day no more.

When our work of life is over,
And we reach the other shore,
Happy then will be our greeting;
Parting days will come no more.

The principal of the school then briefly addressed the graduates, in words of congratulation and counsel, saying that they had most fully filled his most sanguine expectations in the exercises of the evening, and had set a high standard in scholarship and influence; after which Charles E.
Bailey, Esq., chairman of the School Committee, conferred upon each the Diploma of the Scituate High School, in impressive and appropriate language which they must certainly carry with them into their life work. The class then retired from the platform and the benediction was pronounced by Rev.
Nathaniel Seaver, when the large audience slowly left the church.

As this was the first public Graduation Exercise of the High School ever held in Scituate, there had been much interest and enthusiasm manifested in the school for several weeks, and many and various were the ideas expressed with reference to it.

It was the general opinion that the exercises, that for original literary fame, perfection of arrangements and tone of the whole, that many more pretentious institutions of learning and with much better facilities could not show any better results.

With this term Mr. S. A. Snow completes the seventh he has had charge of the High School; and the exercises of this evening showed to the citizens the character of the work that has been done in the school, and must surely lead to increasing interest in its prosperity, and additional appropriations of money to give it the best facilities.

The class desire to tender their thanks to the Unitarian Society for the use of their church, and to all who in any manner have kindly aided them in preparations for the exercises of their graduation.

The reader had decided to make the noble employment of teaching her life work, and was at present in a western state, in a beautiful prairie home with her husband and all her hope in the "Village School."

The prophecy was most favorably received; and although Miss Seaverns was quite indisposed by reason of a severe cold, she displayed a natural and easy style of reading without any affectation.

The oration of Henry T. Bailey on
"The Influence of Science," was a masterly and successful effort; and, for originality of thought, evidence of extended general knowledge, depth of scientific research, force, boldness of style, and it may be justly said, eloquence in its delivery, held the audience spell-bound. The following is the peroration, setting forth some of the results of the power and influence of Science.

"O thou, what hast thou done? What are the results of thy mighty power? Who can boast of a force like thine? Who can tell of such grand achievements? As Jove, greatest of the Gods, as King of beasts, as thou, O Science, art king of powers.

Revelation, tireless as the ocean wave, is invisible as air, as hard to hold as Foghorn!
The hills are silent; the valleys filled with mountains; and rivers gorges by thy power. Thy power that knoweth no limit, thy light that pierces the forest, what and sides; thy iron horse as "heaven by Zeus is driven; men's bridges laid 'neath earth and sky.

Art, mighty power to thee is given? thou art thy richest boon, thy greatest despot. This world's salvation with thy mighty art. Antiquities are broken, and friends are never under. Pine belts of steel thou dost outgrow, on which our sons swoop to fly from shore to shore.

Talks all also thou hast a small bringing—but behold the present, and what a glorious future we can prophesy for thee!"

The Valdeictory, following the oration and given by Henry Bailey, comprised a general introduction; and addressed to the principal, to the School Committee, to the friends of education, and lastly to schoolmates and
classmates, (the latter rising while being addressed,) in truly affectionate
and impressive language. With the tender emotions of the occasion, the
speaker acquitted himself nobly and
grandly, with a clear and forcible
enunciation and deeply impressive
manner.

After music by the orchestra, the
class came upon the rostrum and sang
the "Class Hymn," with orchestral accompaniment, Miss Annie E. Chubbuck
singing the first three verses as a solo.
The hymn was composed by Miss
Mabel Cole and was as follows:

CLASS HYMN.
Graduation! time of parting
From our schoolmates, kind and dear,
Every heart doth breathe low wishes.
At life's threshold we appear.

Happy years o'er us have glided,
Since we first as classmates met;
There are bound by ties of friendship,
Filled with warm true love and sweet.

Now we stand in life's battle,
Childhood's freedom days are o'er;
In the world's broad field of conflict
We shall meet each day no more.

When our work of life is over,
And we reach the other shore,
Happy then will be our greeting;
Parting days will come no more.

The principal of the school then
briefly addressed the graduates, in
words of congratulation and counsel,
saying that they had most fully
filled his most sanguine expectations
in the exercises of the evening, and
had set a high standard in scholarship
and influence; after which Charles E.
Bailey, Esq., chairman of the School Committee, conferred upon each the Diploma of the Scituate High School,
in impressive and appropriate language
which they must certainly carry with them into their life work. The class
then retired from the platform and the benediction was pronounced by Rev.
Nathaniel Seaver, when the large audience slowly left the church.

As this was the first public Graduation Exercise of the High School
ever held in Scituate, there had been
much interest and enthusiasm manifested in the school for several weeks,
and many and various were the ideas
expressed with reference to it.

It was the general opinion that the
exercises, that for original literary
fame, perfection of arrangements and
tone of the whole, that many more pre-
tentious institutions of learning and
with much better facilities could not
show any better results.

With this term Mr. S. A. Snow completes the seventh he has had charge
of the High School; and the exercises of this evening showed to the citizens the character of the work
that has been done in the school, and
must surely lead to increasing interest in its prosperity, and additional
appropriations of money to give it
the best facilities.

The class desire to tender their
thanks to the Unitarian Society for the use of their church, and to all who in
any manner have kindly aided them
in preparations for the exercises of their graduation.

The reader had decided to make
the noble employment of teaching her life work, and was at present in a western state, in a beautiful prairie home
with her husband and all her hope in the "Village School."

The prophecy was most favorably
received; and although Miss Seaverns
was quite indisposed by reason of
a severe cold, she displayed a natural
and easy style of reading without
any affectation.

The oration of Henry T. Bailey on
"The Influence of Science," was a masterly and successful effort; and, for
originality of thought, evidence of extended general knowledge, depth
of scientific research, force, boldness
of style, and it may be justly said, elo-
quence in its delivery, held the audience spell-bound. The following is the peroration, setting forth some of the results of the power and influence of Science.

"O thou, what hast thou done? What are the results of thy mighty power? Who can boast of a force like thine? Who can tell of such grand achievements? As Jove, greatest of the Gods, as King of beasts,
as thou, O Science, art king of powers.

Revelation, tireless as the ocean wave, is
invisible as air, as hard to hold as Foghorn!
The hills are silent; the valleys filled
with mountains; and rivers gorges by thy
power. Thy power that knoweth no limit, thy light that pierces the forest, what and
sides; thy iron horse as "heaven by Zeus is driven; men's bridges laid 'neath earth and
sky.

Art, mighty power to thee is given? thou
art thy richest boon, thy greatest despot. This world's salvation with thy
mighty art. Antiquities are broken, and friends are never under. Pine belts of
steel thou dost outgrow, on which our sons
swoop to fly from shore to shore.

Talks all also thou hast a small bringing—but behold the present, and what a
glorious future we can prophesy for thee!"

The Valdeictory, following the oration and given by Henry Bailey, comprised a general introduction; and addressed to the principal, to the School Committee, to the friends of education, and lastly to schoolmates and
classmates, (the latter rising while being addressed,) in truly affectionate
and impressive language. With the tender emotions of the occasion, the
speaker acquitted himself nobly and
grandly, with a clear and forcible
enunciation and deeply impressive
manner.

After music by the orchestra, the
class came upon the rostrum and sang
the "Class Hymn," with orchestral accompaniment, Miss Annie E. Chubbuck
singing the first three verses as a solo.
The hymn was composed by Miss
Mabel Cole and was as follows:

CLASS HYMN.
Graduation! time of parting
From our schoolmates, kind and dear,
Every heart doth breathe low wishes.
At life's threshold we appear.

Happy years o'er us have glided,
Since we first as classmates met;
There are bound by ties of friendship,
Filled with warm true love and sweet.

Now we stand in life's battle,
Childhood's freedom days are o'er;
In the world's broad field of conflict
We shall meet each day no more.

When our work of life is over,
And we reach the other shore,
Happy then will be our greeting;
Parting days will come no more.

The principal of the school then
briefly addressed the graduates, in
words of congratulation and counsel,
saying that they had most fully
filled his most sanguine expectations
in the exercises of the evening, and
had set a high standard in scholarship
and influence; after which Charles E.
Bailey, Esq., chairman of the School Committee, conferred upon each the Diploma of the Scituate High School,
in impressive and appropriate language
which they must certainly carry with them into their life work. The class
then retired from the platform and the benediction was pronounced by Rev.
Nathaniel Seaver, when the large audience slowly left the church.

As this was the first public Graduation Exercise of the High School
ever held in Scituate, there had been
much interest and enthusiasm manifested in the school for several weeks,
and many and various were the ideas
expressed with reference to it.

It was the general opinion that the
exercises, that for original literary
fame, perfection of arrangements and
tone of the whole, that many more pre-
tentious institutions of learning and with much

